2021/22

Principal's Message

2020 has been a very challenging year in the world. The COVID-19 global pandemic has greatly impacted our lives – beyond our health, it has immensely transformed our way of life, how we work, how students study and how we connect with each other, among other things. Despite the hardships and loss many had to endure and suffer, there are many precious lessons to be learned from all this. We realised what is important in our lives, and how we could improve the way we live. We also need to learn to live post-COVID-19. Would life still be the same?

We at Hong Kong Design Institute (HKDI) believe that Design plays an extremely vital role in such challenging times. Design could help solve many problems we are facing now, because it offers ways of thinking outside the box and could potentially find ways to improve our lives in these unprecedented times.

Since 2010, HKDI has been shaping the landscape of design education in the region. We have been grooming new talent for the creative industries that support and work closely with all sectors in society. At HKDI, students are offered both local and international learning opportunities. Our unique global vision, as evident in our international student exchange programmes and scholarships with renowned universities in UK, Europe, Australia and beyond, imbue our students with international exposure and cross-cultural understanding.

The travel restriction due to COVID-19 has not deterred us from the collaboration activities with our international partners. Global Design Studio that involves students' participation from different universities/institutions worldwide has moved online. Students from different countries continue to collaborate, continue to learn, exchange and expand their knowledge. The project with Ravensbourne University in London on Urban Futures of Sham Shui Po in Hong Kong and Hackney Wick of London would be a success story of the new form of collaboration under the new norm.

Upon completion of the Higher Diploma programmes, graduates can progress toward Bachelor and Master Degrees in Hong Kong and abroad. This is a major advantage that students prefer studying at HKDI, which offers a high degree of flexibility for their study and career plans.

Come join us – for a successful career in design, and to help make society better with all the knowledge and experience you will gain here.

Success Stories

Chu Ka Wing

Graduate of Interior Design

Ka-wing is 2017 graduate of Higher Diploma in Interior Design. His talent shone through his study at HKDI, and led him to win the Gold Award of the student design category at the Asia Pacific Interior Design Award (APIDA) in 2017 by his design project “Music Therapy Tea House”.

The inspiration of his project came from the austere aesthetic concept of Japanese Chado. Through the ingenious design, users may enjoy making and tasting cups of tea in a serene space with peaceful mind and tranquility. It incorporates various sound elements into the design of a tea house, featuring a nice blend of architectural design with acoustic characteristics.

In 2020, “Music Therapy Tea House” earned him the Silver Award in the student category of the Global Awards Program (GAP), a prestigious global architecture award presented by the International Federation of Interior Architects/Designers (IFI). It has demonstrated that Ka-wing’s creativity gained him recognition from the international jury panel.

Ka-wing continued to pursue a design-related top-up degree at Birmingham City University after graduated from HKDI and ambitious to contribute the design industry in the future.

Success Stories

Lam Kin Yan, Kinyan

Graduate of Fashion Design

Kinyan is one of the Elite Students of HKDI. He was offered an exchange opportunity in Marseille, south of France. The different cultural context provided him a unique aesthetic learning experience and allowed him to learn and explore natural dye techniques from Michel Garcia, who is one of the leading natural dye experts in the world.

The techniques were later applied to his award-winning project - "Into the Flame". Inspired by the natural phenomenon of a moth attracted towards light, he employed natural dye methods with his selection of natural materials to create this inspirational collection. This successful project earned him DFA Young Design Talent Award in 2016, with HKD250,000 sponsorship for overseas attachment in a renowned fashion company in Germany.

After the completion of Higher Diploma in Fashion Design in 2016, Kinyan graduated from Nottingham Trent University with a BA(Hons) in Fashion Design#, and furthered his education at London College of Fashion, University of the Arts London in UK, receiving his MA in Menswear Design. He is currently the Assistant Project Officer of the Hong Kong Denim Festival which aims to promote denim culture.
